FOUND DEAD, - Mrs. F. T. Wallace, of this city, long afflicted with heart disease, was found dead yesterday morning. She had been invited out to an evening party the night previous, but not feeling ordinarily well, declined. During the evening she complained of being cold, and had a fire kindled, near which she lingered after her husband and others in the house had retired for the night. In the morning she was found a corpee.

PERSONAL -- Major General Schofield arrived in this city on Thursday night, in company with Colonel J. A. Campbell, Assistant Adjutant Goneral on his staff. They were dressed in civilian sults, and seemed desirous to travel incog. They took supper at Wheeler and Russell's rooms at the depot, purposing to leave on the ten o'clock train the same night. They changed their Weddell House. General Schoneld left yesterday morning for Missouri to see a baby he has just been "blessed" with, and Colanel Campbell will leave to-day for Tenhense on official business. The Colonel

ARRIVAL OF THE TWENTIETH OHIO BATTERY.

A Love-Biot at 'the Depot-Entertainment - Moonlight Pic-Nie in Oak Grove.

This old and favorite battery, so long looked for, arrived here at half past five o'clock yesterday afternoon, direct from Nashville, which place they left last Monday. Perhaps it is better known as Smithnight's Battery, it having been recruited 10:00 in this city by Mr. Louis Smithnight, who went out as Captain commanding the battery. The original organization was as follows :

Captain-Louis Smithnight. Licutenants - Frank Robbins, Henry Roth, Matthias Adams and Oscar Hancock. This independent battery was mustered into service on the 29th of October, 1882, and left Camp in this city, 156 strong. It went first into Kentucky where it saw some service, but Tennessee is the field of glory on which the boys have made their name and mark. For a long time they were stationed at Murfreesboro, but latterly they have been at Chattanoogs. The battery comes back with 135 men,

Captain—Wis Backus. Lieutenante—H. P. Jocelyn, Henry Horn, Wm. Nierachier and Henry Heine. All these officers have come up from the ranks, and are fine specimens of military nen, each one being in physique, appearance and bearing every inch a soldier The men are all large and robust, the very ictures of health and endurance. They ne back with that conscious swing of independence and pride which boys may have who have passed through such battles as Liberty Gap, Chickamauga and Frank-under the following officers ;

prized Lieutenant and fourteen men. Originally the battery was German, with the exception of one small detachment of about twenty-five Americans. The latter nationality now constitutes, after the recruiting of the battery, about one-third the entire force. Seventy-five or eighty of the original members, who went out with Captain Smithnight, return. A large number of men, women and chilires were at the depot when the train ome in. The crowd was largely composed of sweethearts, wives and their progeny. Before the train had stopped, the boys, their eyes fixed intently on various pieces of calco, jumped wildly from the cars, with sabres, knapsacks and all, and made for the women. Of all the hugging and kissing and general love-riot we have ever seen, that scene was chief. The men seemed to have the thing reduced right down to a science and an art. And when one remembers how infinitely more demonstrative and nonintrospective the Germans are than the neeting. Mothers hugged their returned boys, murtial husbands and lovers clapped arms around sweethearts, wives, babies and all, and sent huge moustachles down upon soft faces without ceremony. It was just such a revel and riot of tender sentiments and emotions as the sly god who presides over that department, loves, As soon as the officers could summon order out of this love-chaos, the men were got into line, and, headed by several gentlemen of the Reception Committee and Leland's Band, marched up to the Park. When they arrived there, they sat down to supper, not waiting for a reception speech, inasmuch as better things were in store for

When supper had been dispatched, the men were ordered to march over to Oak FALSE ALARM.—The fire alarm sounded Grove, near the Camp, where a pic-nic en-Through the kindness of Mr. Thomas Jones, , neighbor George and this reporter had the pleasure of a moonlight ride over the picturesque road leading to the grove, and also the pleasure of seeing the happiest set of women and children and the jolliest crew of men in the world. We have read in ancient and sacred lore of lands flowing with milk and honey, but we never happened, before last night, to fall upon grounds over-flowed with lager, and 'tis no wonder if in "escaping" the flood, we got somewhat strangled in the midst of the buffetings. The crowd was in its happiest vein. A. T. Brinsmade, Esq., had made them a felicitous speech of welcome, which they cheered, and Captain Backus, in response, had told the men that there were their wives, sweethearts and friends, and he would not ask them to go to camp as they would want to spend the night with the aforesaid, and this admirable piece of kind consideration had elicited tremendous cheering, and frequent imbibition of copious draughts of favorite lager had warmed the blood and spirits to the fine temper of the milk of human kindness, and all were as social as blackbirds in early spring. They sang, and promonaded, and fought their battles o'er again to their clinging Desdemonas, and between whiles the band stimulated the crowd, and kept up the convivial furore with their stirring blasts. After several casks of lager had been guzzled, and two or three hours spent most hilariously and agreeably, the company set out on their return to the city, soldier husbands carrying babies and knapsacks and supporting wives, and valiant lovers each with an arm around her. The battery will meet on the Perk at ten o'clock this morning, when they will march over to camp and wait to be paid off. The boys were loud in praise of the hospitality and attention of the city, and judging from their immense enjoyment of this occasion, will never forget the magnificent double reception they met on their return from the BUTTER A THERMOMETER.—There is reason and authority for believing that butter was used, anciently, as a test of temperature, and it can be so used still, only it is cheaper now os, the learned and venevable German Dib-lical commentator, in his last volume, suggosts the view taken above, while dwelling upon the proverbial biblical phrase, "wash your steps with butter." He remarks that in the hot countries of the Orient, butter would very quickly reduce itself to liquefaction unless carefully stored away in a patent refrigerator; and that the ancients noticing the effect of caloric on butter, came naturally to use the phrase above quoted in their casual, salutatory or passing observations about the weather. It was considered a hot day when a man could wash his foot in butter.

The Doctor, farther along in the chapter on this subject, goes into a lengthy comparison or contrast of that age with the present, aiming to show, by the mere use of words, the levity of this day and generation. Thus he observes that, when we wish to make emphatic our sense of oppressively warm weather, we say it is "all-fired hot." or-we will not use the other term-which, he thinks, are phrases more exprestive plans, however, and stopped over at the | than elegant or pious. They sound vulgar and slightly reckless and preface when compared with the standing and standard terms used by the ancient worthies to express the same feelings.

In this connection it may be stated that the weather has been so warm for a day or two, that grocers and market-men have been selling butter not by the pound, but by the quart. THE TWENTY-THIRD MICHIGAN .- The above pecially that of those which are, like this Law College, an honor as well as an ornament to the place.

This institution, incorporated in 1850 with full University powers, is designed to give the student a thorough practical as well as theoretical legal education, and is based upon the assumption that the legal profession has two departments-a science, to be attained by study, and an art, to be acquired by practice.

It aims to give each student a systematic and available knowledge of every branch of legal science and practice, together with the power of an essy, fluent and correct extemporaneous orator. To secure these ends all the studies and practice of the institution are arranged.

Every body knows, who is at all conversant with stage affairs here, that "Jim Lewis" has become, long since, an universal favorite. Cleveland awears by him in all matters comedical. He is regarded, and justly, the first low-comedian in the West. He goes, in a week or two, to play in the Olympic theatre in New York city. Before his departure, however, his multitudes of friends wish to tender him a benefit, and it will, without doubt, prove lin. At the latter piace they lost a muchitself the father of all benefits. BENEFIT OF EVELYN EVANS .- This sterling actor will take a banefit next Monday night. His many warm personal friends on the West Side as well as on this, have expressed a desire to honor him in a belitting, substantial manner with some token of their kind regards for him as a gentleman, and their appreciation and admiration of his high qualities and excellencies as an actor. We are glad to know that they have made about ten o'clock last night proved to be tertainment had been spread in their honor have respectfully urged him to accept the and for their enjoyment, by Captain Smith- tandered banefit at their hands. Such a proceeding is highly complimentary to the abilities of Mr. Evans, and as such he must regard it.

He will appear for the first time on that occasion in his great character of "Bir Giles Over-reach," and will furnish other attractions which will be announced in due time

Loss or LAKE CHAPP .- The schooner Illinois, with a cargo of 115 tons of coal, was struck by a heavy squall off Vermilion, a few days since, which caused her to leak badly. She was headed for the beach, but sank five miles out. The crew barely escaped in the small boat.

The barge Empire broke in two during a storm off the port of Buffalo, last week Wednesday. She was built here in 1844 by Captain G. W. Jones, for D. N. Barney & Co., and registered 1,136 tons burthen. She was then a steamer and one of the best on the lakes, but was transformed, several years since, into a lumber barge.
